That’s particularly true at the top end of Samsung’s smartphone range, where the incredibly powerful Samsung Galaxy S10 Plus has just been joined by the incredibly powerful Samsung Galaxy Note 10. S-Pen aside there are some key differences between the two devices, and that means one of these big-screened beauties may be a much better fit for you than the other. Let’s discover the details.Today's best Samsung Galaxy S10 Plus dealsSamsung Galaxy Note 10 vs Galaxy S10 Plus: Design and display(Image credit: Future)The new Galaxy Note 10 has a 6.3-inch dynamic AMOLED Infinity-O display with a “hole punch” cut-out for the front camera. It delivers 2,280 x 1,080 at 401ppi and is HDR10+ certified. The Galaxy S10 Plus has a marginally bigger display – 6.4 inches – and a lot more pixels, as it has a resolution of 3,040 x 1,440. It too has a hole-punch display but the hole is in the right hand corner, not in the centre as it is on the new Note, and the hole is shorter but wider to make room for the S10’s twin lenses. The camera layout is different on the back too. On the Galaxy S10 Plus the lenses are arranged in a horizontal strip near the top of the device. On the Note 10 they’re arranged vertically along the left hand side.The Note 10 is 151mm high, 71.8mm wide and 7.9mm thick, weighing 168g. The Galaxy S10 Plus is very slightly bigger and heavier but there isn’t much in it: it is 157.6 x 74.1 x 7.8 and weighs 175g.As ever, the Note includes Samsung’s excellent S-Pen, which is tucked away inside the case when you don’t need it.Samsung Galaxy Note 10 vs Galaxy S10 Plus: Processor and storage(Image credit: Future)Both devices have octa-core processors but the manufacturer will differ depending on your location: US, Chinese, Japanese and Latin American customers get Qualcomm Snapdragons with Adreno graphics while the rest of the world gets Samsung’s own Exynos system-on-a-chip.The Galaxy S10 Plus comes with either the Snapdragon 855 or the Exynos 9820, while the Note 10 ships with either the Snapdragon 855+ or the Exynos 9825. Both phones come with 8GB of RAM (12GB in the 1TB Galaxy S10 Plus). The Note 10 has 256GB of internal storage and no microSD slot. The S10 Plus is available with 128GB, 512GB or 1TB of internal storage and supports an additional 512GB via microSD.Samsung Galaxy Note 10 vs Galaxy S10 Plus: Camera(Image credit: Future)Where the previous Note had a dual-lens camera, the Note 10 adds a third. The main assembly now has a 16MP ultra-wide camera with f/2.2, a 12MP wide-angle camera with f/1.5 to f/2.4 and a 12MP telephoto lens with f/2.1. The front camera is 10MP with f/2.2, and it’s a single-lens affair rather than the dual-lens assembly of the previous Note.The Note 10+ adds yet another rear camera to deliver a quad-camera assembly: the fourth camera is a DepthVision camera with f/1.4 and VGA resolution. The other camera specifications remain the same.Samsung Galaxy Note 10 vs Galaxy S10 Plus: BatteryWhere the Galaxy S10 Plus ships with a 4,100mAh battery the Note 10 gets a comparatively titchy 3,500mAh. The bigger battery has to drive the S10 Plus’s extra pixels so the difference in everyday terms probably won’t be dramatic, but we’d still expect the S10 to last a little longer than the Note 10.Samsung Galaxy Note 10 vs Galaxy S10 Plus: price and availabilityOn release, the price for the Galaxy S10 Plus was $999 / £899 / AU$1,499 for the 128GB version; $1,249 / £1,099 / AU$1,849 for 512GB and $1,599 / £1,399 / AU$2,399 for the 1TB edition with 12GB of RAM.The LTE version of the Galaxy Note 10 costs $949 and the 5G version costs $1,049. The Note 10+ on the other hand costs $1,099 for the LTE version, and $1,299 for the 5G variant. All models go on sale on August 23, 2019.Samsung Galaxy Note 10 vs Galaxy S10 Plus: verdict(Image credit: Future)In some respects comparing these two devices is a little unfair: the S10 Plus is the pinnacle of the S10 range, but the standard Note 10 is the second-top and lacks some of the specifications of its larger Note

10+ sibling. That said, the two devices start at the same price and are similarly sized, so they’re the configurations most of us will want to compare when we’re considering which one to buy.Although the Note 10 has a very slightly faster processor and the obligatory S Pen, we think this one’s a narrow win for the S10 Plus. It has a higher resolution display, a bigger battery and a microSD slot for affordable expansion. The Note 10 is good, but the S10 Plus is better.Today's best Samsung Galaxy S10 deals (opens in new tab) (opens in new tab) (opens in new tab)View (opens in new tab) (opens in new tab) (opens in new tab)View (opens in new tab) (opens in new tab) (opens in new tab)£799.95 (opens in new tab)View (opens in new tab) Join our newsletter All the best features, news, tips and great deals to help you live a better life through technology Thank you for signing up to T3. And further down, you'll find our pick of the best S10 deals for each model available now. In a hurry? Jump straight to: S10 deals | S10e deals | S10 Plus deals | SIM-only deals Samsung S10 deals: price comparisonWhere else can I find Samsung S10 deals?Virtually every phone retailer and network is selling the Samsung Galaxy S10. It’s no wonder: it’s one of the most exciting phone releases of the last few years. If you haven’t seen your provider of choice in our Samsung Galaxy S10 price comparison above, here are some useful additional links:Samsung S10 Plus: our thoughtsThe new Samsung Galaxy S10 Plus is the most powerful of the new trio of phones. Carrying up to 12GB of RAM and 1TB of built-in storage – which can be increased by a further 512GB via the MicroSD card slot – this is a powerhouse phone.Editor's Pick (opens in new tab)It brings with it the same sturdy build quality and gorgeous fit-and-finish we've come to expect from Samsung, but now has an even bigger 6.4-inch Quad HD+ AMOLED display, and an enormous 4,100mAh battery capacity. The Samsung Galaxy S10 Plus has a triple-camera on the rear case, while the dual front-facing cameras enable brilliant Live Focus photos. (The Live Focus feature adds an adjustable artificial bokeh-style blur to the background behind the subject, and has been updated for the S10 and S10 Plus phones to include a number of additional effects, including one that renders the background in greyscale, leaving only the subject in colour.)If you've always favoured the Plus variant of the Galaxy S smartphone, you won't be disappointed with the latest addition. But that doesn't mean it cuts corners on build quality, boasting the same Infinity-O design as the S10 and S10 Plus – which makes its 5.8-inch screen size much easier to hold than the Galaxy S9. Editor's Pick (opens in new tab)One area where it differs from its more expensive siblings is the camera. Unlike the Galaxy S10 and Galaxy S10 Plus, the Galaxy S10e has two rear-mounted cameras, rather than three. You still get the ultra-wide shots of the S10 and S10 Plus, but it’s at the expense of the 12-megapixel telephoto lens that gives those bokeh-drenched portraits.It's powered by the latest Exynos chipset in the UK, which offers a 40% improvement in power efficiency over its predecessor. And the S10e also has a bigger battery than the S10, which is a hugely exciting prospect. Overall, the Samsung Galaxy S10e is a great smartphone and will be a solid upgrade for anyone carrying a Galaxy S8 or older. Read our full Samsung Galaxy S10e review (opens in new tab) for more.
